Surprise, surprise.....

You will be thoroughly surprised by how many websites seem harmless and free from any trackers but actually have dozens of them running in the background. Your web surfing sessions are a gold mine to a lot of companies out there, which is why websites collect and sell them for an extra profit. Ad blockers can make sure your online data and activities are yours and yours alone, ensuring your privacy is kept intact in every click.

You get a lot of information browsing the web and the Web can get a lot of information from you!

- Websites with ads and tracking code
 - Slower
 - Less private

Ad blockers are one of the most utilized tools to-date, especially with pop-ups, video, and malicious ads popping up left and right on your screen. Not only are they distracting and annoying, there are certain kinds of adware that can track your online activities and actually breach your privacy. This is an issue that everyone should be concerned about.

Ad blockers make sure that you get only the main content of the page that you are visiting, with the added security that nothing unwanted infiltrates your web surfing session.

- Blocking ads is not always a good thing
- It blocks revenue to site providers
 - Many paid by number of views
 - Visitors that don't view/block ads consume resources for free

"There is an oft-stated misconception that if a user never clicks on ads, then blocking them won't hurt a site financially. This is wrong. Most sites, at least sites the size of ours, are paid on a per view basis. If you have an ad blocker running, and you load 10 pages on the site, you consume resources from us (bandwidth being only one of them), but provide us with no revenue."

- Some Web Sites restrict views with Ad Blockers active
- Some block
- Forms won't appear

- Ghostery is a free-to-use browser add-on that is available for:
 - Google Chrome
 - Mozilla Firefox
 - Opera, Safari
 - Microsoft Edge

It also has mobile versions for both Android and iOS devices, with an extra add-on offered for Firefox for Android, all for FREE.

Since there are certain websites that thrive on ad revenue, Ghostery designed their tool to give users granular control over which ads and trackers to block. Moreover, with their GhostRank feature, you can continue to support these websites, as the tool gathers information on the ads that you permit and block, giving them an idea which ads will work and has a lesser chance of being blocked (while keeping your data anonymous, of course).

Built by Advertisers for Advertisers

Ad fraud is the practice of generating false interactions—viewing, clicking, or converting, for example—with a web asset for the sole purpose of directly or indirectly taking money from the advertiser. These costly interactions are not limited to malicious bots or malware; ad fraud can be carried out by humans, too. To unsuspecting users, ad fraud often appears to be legitimate, but a closer look reveals otherwise.

LAS VEGAS (FOX5) -- A Black Lives Matter protest in response to the death of George Floyd on the Las Vegas Strip Sunday remained peaceful for several hours before SWAT units used tear gas on protesters.

About 5 p.m., dozens of protesters had gathered near Mandalay Bay on the south end of the Strip. Sunday's demonstration marks the fourth day of protests in Las Vegas as cities across the nation take further precautions including curfews and implementing the National Guard.
